TWO GREAT BOOKS ABOUT THE LIFE AND WORK OF EVELYN CAMERON

NEW RELEASE

Evelyn Cameron: Montana's Frontier Photographer By Kristi Hager

This great new book features the work of adored photographer, Evelyn Cameron. She traded privilege for adventure, the lush English countryside for the austere eastern Montana badlands. Turning to the burgeoning art of glass-plate photography as a way to support a struggling horse ranch, she produced some of the most remarkable images of pioneer life ever seen.

The Cowboy Girl: The Life of Caroline Lockhart By John Clayton

Read a true story of a woman whose work and life teetered between realism and romanticism and who wrote novels "like a man" yet ran her businesses and love affairs like a liberated feminist. Prep-school educated (she attended the Moravian Seminary for girls) and well-traveled (her assignments took her throughout Europe), she chose to live out her passions in a time when to bare one's ankle could ruin a woman for life.

Eight Women, Two Model Ts, and the American West By Joanne Wilke

In 1924, eight young women drove across the American West in two Model T Fords. In nine weeks they traveled more than 9,000 unpaved miles on an extended car-camping trip through six national parks, "without a man or a gun along." It was the era of the flapper, but this book tells the story of a group of farm girls who met while attending Iowa's Teacher's College and who shared a "yen to see some things."

Wild Women of the Old West

Edited by Glenda Riley & Richard W. Etulain
Wild Women presents the sensational lives and exploits of nine notorious women from the days of boisterous frontier saloons and high-noon showdowns. Meet Baby Doe Tabor, Emily D. West (Morgan), Sadie Orchard, Calamity Jane, and others in a book that explores both the myths and realities of their iconoclastic lives.

Motherlode: Legacies of Women's Lives and Labors in Butte, Montana By Ellen Crain & Janet Finn

With courage, grace, and humor, Butte women have built and sustained communities in good times and bad. They have persevered for the sake of individual, family, and community survival, and they have taught us the value of commitment for the long haul. Motherlode is a call for sympathy and understanding, a testament to the vision and strength of the early stalwarts, and a cry for a more intelligent and humane future, one built upon equality and mutual trust.

Mary Fields: The Story of Black Mary By James A. Franks

Born a slave in Hickman County, Tennessee, in 1832, Mary Fields (Black Mary) was a strong black woman with dreams of freedom. After winning her independence at the end of the Civil War, Mary Fields left Tennessee for St. Peter's Mission in Montana, where she met the author's grandmother. In 1892, at the age of 60, "Black Mary" became the first African American woman ever to carry the U.S. mail, working a dangerous 17-mile route between Cascade, Montana, and St. Peter's Mission. This is the inspiring story of a woman who loved life and lived it to the fullest during a challenging period in U.S. history.
